*The Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation (CAEP) initiated advanced-level program reviews for all EPPs beginning fall 2019. Advanced-level programs within an EPP were not expected to be included in the CAEP review process if the CAEP onsite visit was scheduled prior to fall 2019. EPPs, however, could opt to include advanced-level programs, but were not required to do so. In fall 2018, CAEP informed EPPs with advanced-level programs expiring in 2018 that in order to maintain advanced level accreditation they would be required to undergo a modified advanced-level program virtual review within two years of their site visit. Per consultation with CAEP and the IDOE, Indiana programs may choose whether or not to undergo an advanced-level virtual review; however, all these programs must undergo an advanced-level review as part of their next accreditation review cycle.

Seeking initial CAEP accreditation.

Title II reporting not required.

*Programs identified by IDOE as “at-risk” received at least one stipulation following most recent CAEP onsite visit. Program must address and resolve within two years in order to maintain accreditation. Stipulation is defined as “a statement written by a site visit team or review panel which is confirmed by the Accreditation Council as a deficiency related to one or more components or a CAEP standard. A stipulation is of sufficient severity that a standard is determined to be unmet. For educator preparation providers (EPPs) seeking to continue their accreditation, a stipulation must be corrected within two years to retain accreditation. For EPPs seeking initial or first accreditation, a stipulation leading to an unmet standard will result in denial of accreditation” (source: <http://caepnet.org/glossary?letter=S>).
